ABSTRACT

Intended to assist library users in finding biographical sources in various disciplines, this compilation lists selective biographical sources which are available in the Northern Illinois University Libraries. The compilation is divided into four major areas: indexes to biographies, sources of information on living persons, sources of information on deceased persons, and biographical sources in special fields of interest. This last section covers the following subject fields: fine arts, performing arts, business and commerce, literature, authors, fictional characters, philosophy, religion, politics, government, law, physical sciences, behavioral sciences, social sciences, recreation, and sports. Entries in each section are arranged alphabetically by title. A step-by-step method to instruct library users in locating biographical sources is included. (Author/FM)

Introduction

Hundreds of specialized publications provide biographical information. Some, such as the Who's Who series, contain very brief sketches of a person's life and career. Others, such as the Dictionary of American Biography, or Dictionary of National Biography, contain lengthy, authoritative articles often accompanied by a bibliography.

In looking for biographical information, tremendous time will be saved if the searcher knows more than just the name of the person. Facts, such as nationality, occupation, approximate dates, and whether he/she is living or dead will give the searcher a good start in the selection of biographical sources of information. Occasionally, such factors as race, gender, politics or religion will also provide additional approaches.

The following steps should make the search easier:

1. To find out what is available in the General Reference and other subject clusters of Founders Memorial Library, look in the public card catalog under such headings as:

|---|---|
| Artists, American | Patton, George Smith |
| Biography-Dictionaries | Presidents-United States-Biography |
| France-Biography | Scientists |
| Gt. Britain-Biography | Theater-United States |
| Musicians-Biography | Washington, George |
| Negro Authors | Women-Biography |

Many useful books are available in various locations. The call number of the location codes under the call number on the catalog card will tell you where to locate the source.

Remember to ask the Reference Librarian for assistance in coping with the public card catalog.

2. Consult the index volume of one or more encyclopedias. Good encyclopedias contain biographical material about well-known people of all nationalities, and may give clues for the use of other biographical sources.

Example:

Encyclopedia Americana (GEN REF AE 5 E 333 1980)

Encyclopedia Britannica (GEN REF AE 5 E 363 1981)

Encyclopedia of Philosophy (GEN REF B 41 E5)

International Encyclopedia of the Social Sciences (GEN REF H 40 A2 I5) or appropriate subject or foreign language titles.

3. If the biographee (Person on whom the searcher wants information) has written books, check the card catalog under his/her name in the Author/Title Catalog.

This will often give such information as his/her birth and death dates, the subjects about which he/she wrote, and the country in which he/she lived and published. These clues will save much time in using the biographical sources listed in this bibliography.

4. In addition to the subject card catalog and encyclopedias, the following reference works provide various kinds of biographical material. If what the searcher needs is not included, a Reference Librarian will suggest sources of additional information. Ask for assistance at the General Reference Desk.

The arrangement of this compilation is divided into four major areas: Indexes to Biographies, Sources of Information on Living Persons, Sources of Information on Deceased Persons, and Biographical Sources in Special Fields of Interest. Within the Sources of Information on Living Persons, a subdivision entitled "Biographical Sources by Country" is included. The section on Biographical Sources in Special Fields of Interest contains the following subject fields: Arts (Fine Arts & Performing Arts), Business & Commerce, Literature & Authors, Fictional Characters, Philosophy & Religion; Politics, Government & Law, Physical, Social & Behavioral Sciences, and Recreation & Sports. The entries in each section are arranged alphabetically by title.

This compilation lists only a portion of the hundreds of titles available, and is limited mainly to the English Language. It does not constitute a complete list of subjects for which biographical sources can be found. For other subject fields, check the subject card catalog under the occupation or field of prominence, followed by the subdivision "Biography" as indicated in the step one in this compilation.

For location symbols, please consult the FOUNDERS MEMORIAL LIBRARY: MAP, ALPHABETICAL DIRECTORY & CLASSIFIED DIRECTORY at the General Reference, and Information Desks.

INDEXES TO BIOGRAPHIES:

Biographical indexes aid in locating more information about the person in question by directing the searcher to a particular biographical dictionary, an article in a journal or an essay in a book that will contain information on the biographee. Periodical indexes such as the Reader's Guide (PER IND AI 3 R4), Education Index (PER IND LB 15 E377), Social Sciences Index (PER IND AI 3 R493), Humanitites Index (PER IND AI 3 R492), Art Index (PER IND N1 A1 A695), Music Index (Mus PER IND ML 118 M84) and Philosopher's Index (PER IND B 1 P51) will prove valuable for finding biographical information in periodicals. Another major index is the Essay and General Literature Index (PER IND AI 3 E752) which will not only give you sources of information about a figure, but also information on essays by that figure and where they can be found. There is, however, an index specifically designed to aid in locating biographical information: the Biography Index (PER IND Z 5301 B5).

Biography Index. . . . . .Covers 1946 to present.

An indespensable source for biographical material in the English language from periodicals, books, and the New York Times.

Composed of two sections:
(1) Persons listed alphabetically by name, provides birth and death dates, nationality, and occupation, plus the list of sources where you can read about that biographee.
(2) An index by profession and occupation.

SOURCES OF INFORMATION ON LIVING PERSONS:

For people who are still alive and making names for themselves, biographical information can often be found in the familiar WHO'S WHO-type volume. Although many of these are related to the country or region in which a person lives, biographical dictionaries can also encompass a group of professionals or an ethnic group. In general, the WHO's WHO volumes are similar in scope and content. Each contains concise biographies of contemporary men and women of national prominence in the field of humanities, behavioral and social sciences.
